The doctors of Fertility Specialists of Houston provide exceptional, compassionate care – because they care. Founder and medical director of the most longstanding IVF program in Houston, Dr. George M. Grunert believes in a customized, holistic approach in treating patients. Dr. Grunert believes that an integral part of his practice is to treat each patient as an individual, addressing the physical and psychological toll that the infertile patient faces.

A Board Certified Reproductive Endocrinologist and Infertility (REI) Specialist, Dr. Randall C. Dunn, who is a published author and speaker on IVF, clinical infertility and adhesion prevention, has consistently been voted into the National Guide of Top Doctors in America list.

Dr. Rakesh K. Mangal is one of the few doctors in America who has completed fellowship training in both advanced reproductive laparoscopic surgery, as well as REI, allowing him to be the medical and surgical specialist for endometriosis, pelvic pain and infertility. He is board certified in both OB/GYN and REI.

Dr. Leah M. Schenk completed her REI fellowship training and served as a faculty member at the prestigious Jones Institute for Reproductive Medicine in Virginia before moving to Houston. With a patient friendly approach, she specializes in the treatment of infertility, IVF, egg donation, ovulatory problems and reproductive developmental abnormalities.

Voted one of the Best Doctors in America, Dr. Cecilia T. Valdes is board certified in obstetrics and gynecology and reproductive endocrinology. Dr. Valdes' fellowship training in medical endocrinology focused on ovulatory problems, particularly polycystic ovarian syndrome and IVF.

The addition of Dr. Subodh Chauhan to FSH allows patients the convenience of a board certified OB/GYN and reproductive endocrinologist with full-time accessibility in the Sugar Land area. Dr. Chauhan's compassionate demeanor lets patients know that he is dedicated to helping them achieve the family of their dreams.
